Press/Reviews

"There's surprising spatial and emotional depth lurking amid the deceptively simple-sounding songs and threadbare arrangements on Kid Lunch, and it gets under your skin remarkably rapidly"
- The Toronto Star, 1999

"a delightfully low-key affair ... that comes to eulogize homemade indie-rock yet manages to bring it back to life" - Eye Magazine, 1999

"Simple harmonies ... instantly birthed in the basement demonstrate that Malinsky's at his best when he's spontaneous." - Exclaim! Magazine, 2000
